"Our vision and mission is to address the interests and help companies that need world-class offices, especially those in the finance and oil and gas sectors to grow," he said.

Imelda also explained that it is ready to provide more office space on an ongoing basis as well as to increase staff in the larger sector, especially the offices that operate the property industry and the international financial business market.

"The continued provision of office space and USO staff expansion services will bring about positive changes in the office space sector of the real estate industry as more companies enter the international business and financial markets" he said.

In addition, he said, USO's decision to continue to expand its company was due to the high demand for the use of the oil and gas industry office as well as the island's ever-growing international finance.
